Making condolence cards

Instructions No. 3264

Difficulty: Beginner

Working time: 45 Minutes

Saying goodbye to loved ones is always difficult. Self-designed condolence cards are one way to show the mourners your special sympathy in a personal way. We have put together some examples of how you could design appealing condolence cards.

The basis for the craft is double cards from kraft paper, made from white cardboard or black cardboard. Choose a silicone stamp with the message you want to convey. Place your stamp on an acrylic block and stamp on white or natural-colored cardboard first. Remember to clean your stamps with water afterwards to prolong their lifespan and always keep a clear stamp image.

The silicone stamps usually also contain matching symbols for the further design of your cards.

Cut out the individual elements in suitable formats or shapes. Arrange them together with other paper cuttings on the cards to create decorative looks and stick everything onto the double cards.

All that's missing now only is the lettering on the inside of the condolence cards.

Liebe und Gedanken
bleiben für immer.

Das Schönste,
was ein Mensch hinterlassen kann,
ist ein Lächeln im Gesicht derjenigen, die an ihn denken.
